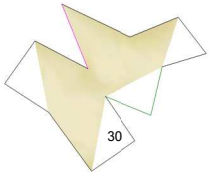
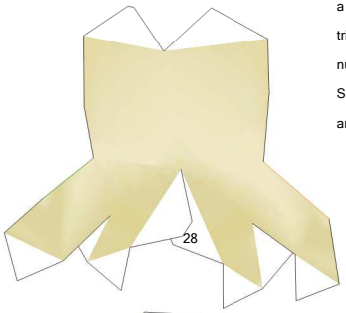
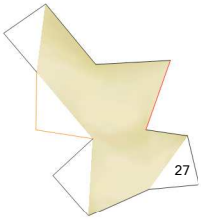
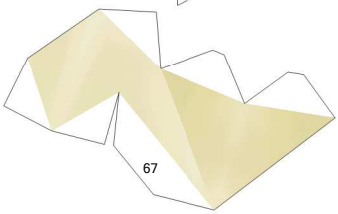
Use the colored lines an pdo as a reference. This part can get tricky, so make sure to follow the numbers, instructions and references. Some lines MUST be folded, they are indicated with a red color.

Glue this segment to the legs before gluing the arms.

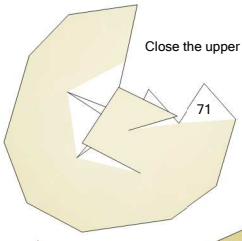


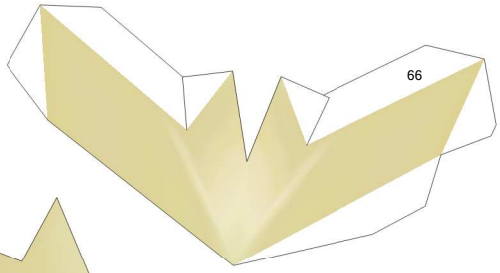


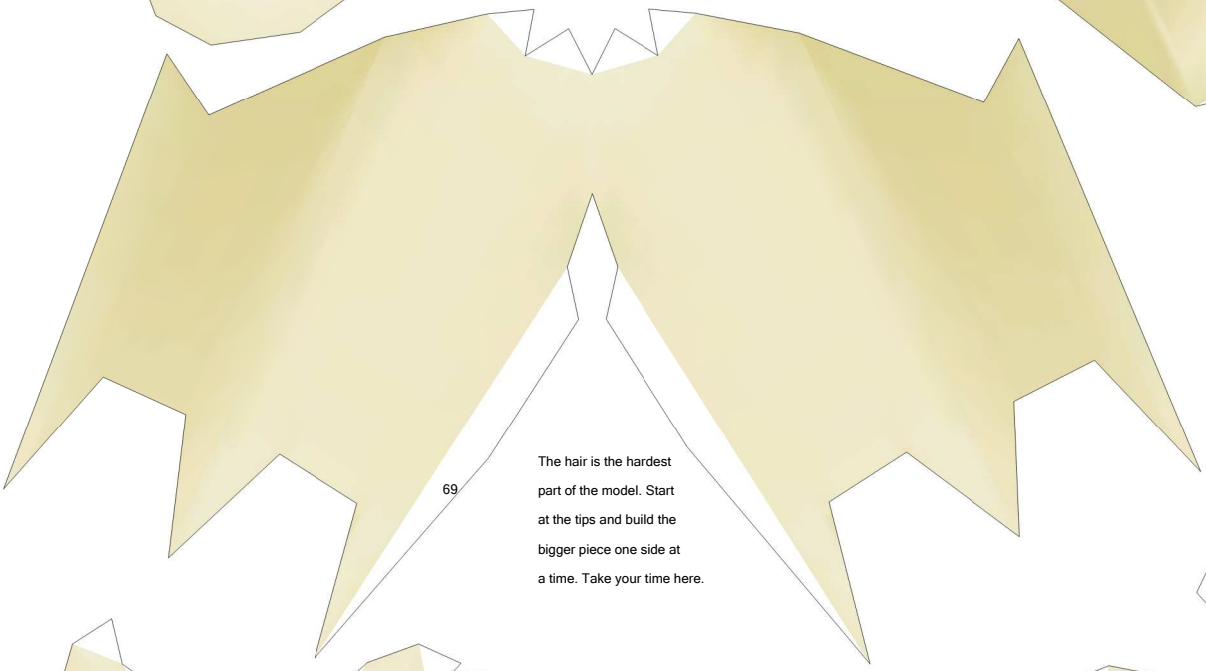




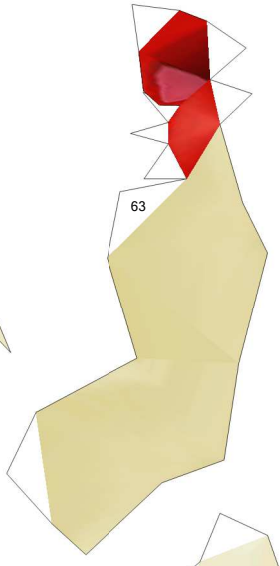
Close the upper part at the top

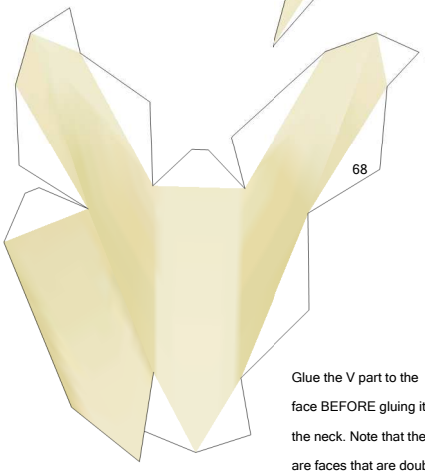


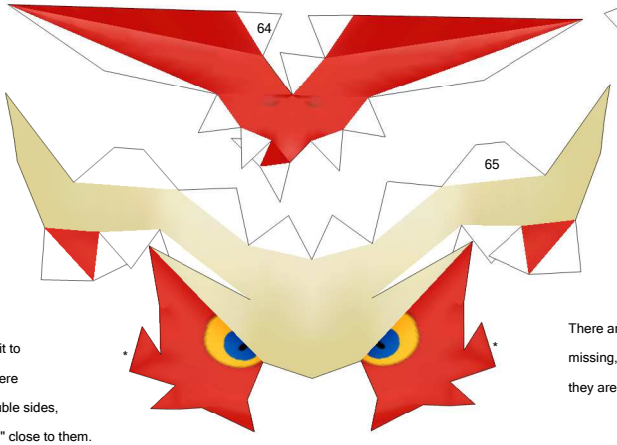


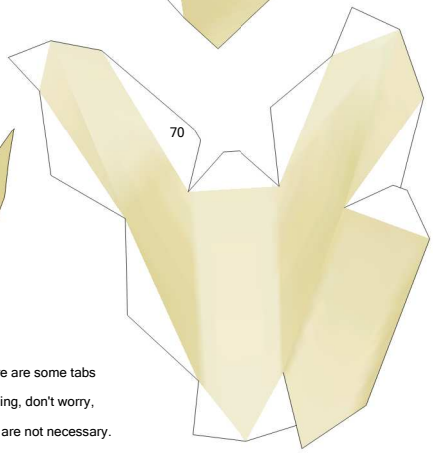


The hair is the hardest part of the model. Start at the tips and build the bigger piece one side at a time. Take your time here.





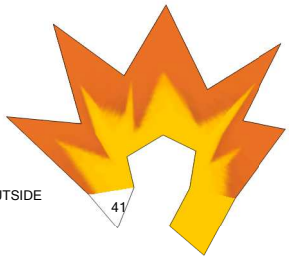


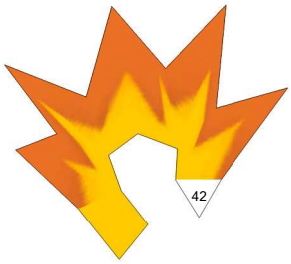


Glue the V part to the face BEFORE gluing it to the neck. Note that there are faces that are double sides, they're indicated by "*" close to them.

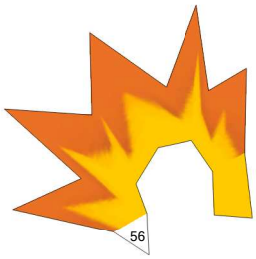
There are some tabs missing, don't worry, they are not necessary.

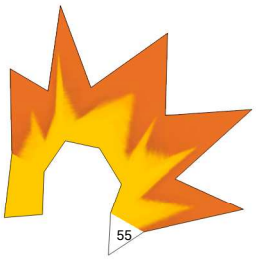
OUTSIDE



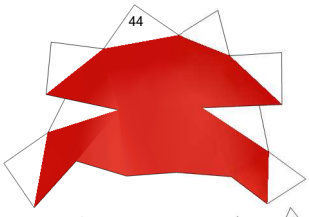


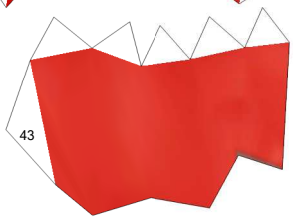
INSIDE



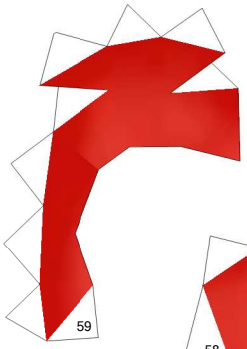


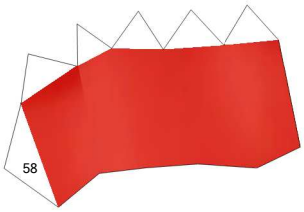
OUTSIDE

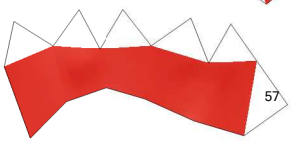


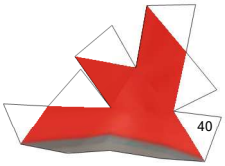


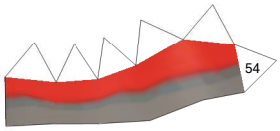
Glue the inside and the outside of the flames together before placing them to the arms. Only DON'T glue the tabs, they are glued to the othe side of the flames AFTER they are placed.

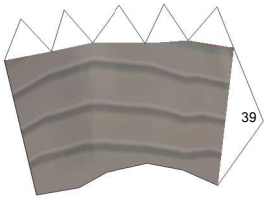




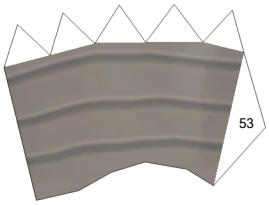


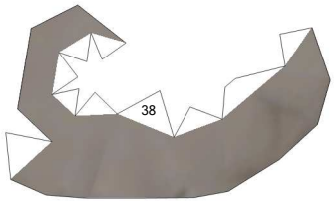


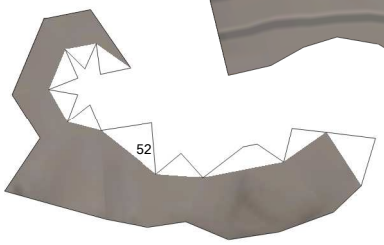


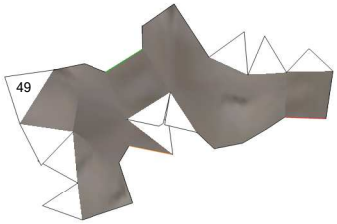


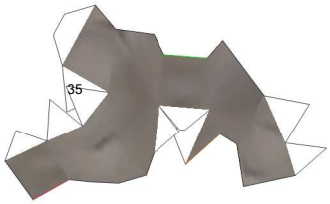
Build the arms from the claws up. Glue the fire to them when the numbers get to them. You can either glue the nails now or when the arms are built.



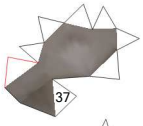


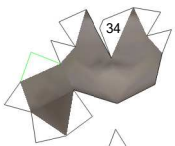


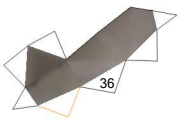


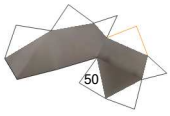


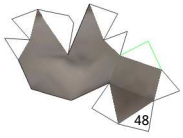
Use the colored tabs as reference.

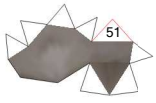


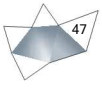


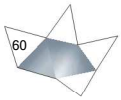


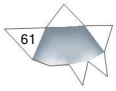




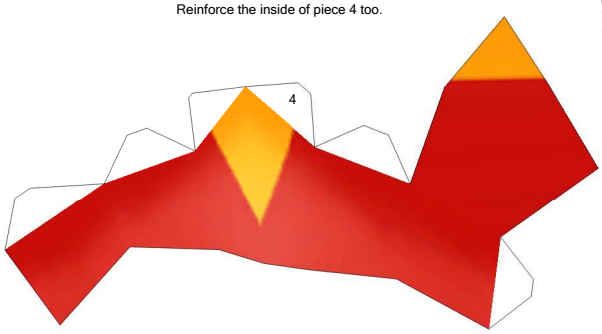


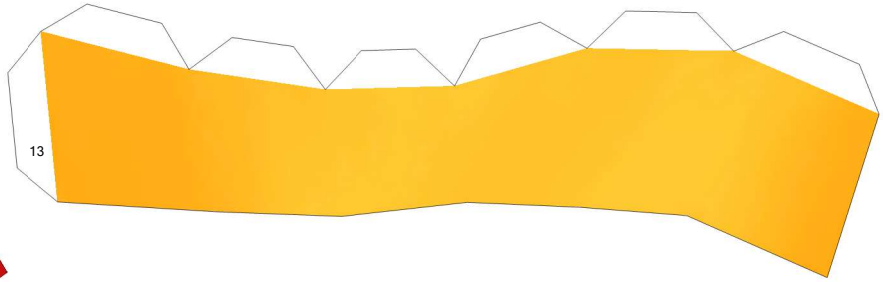


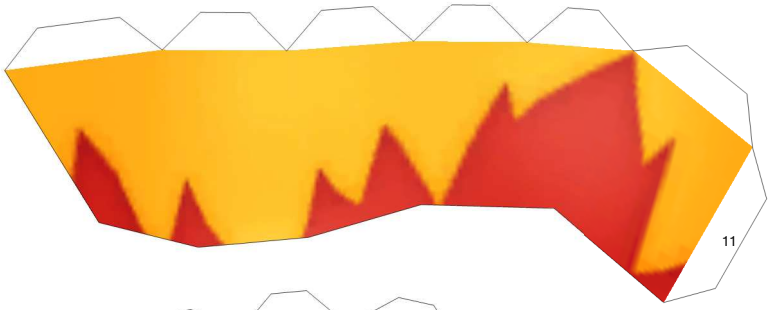


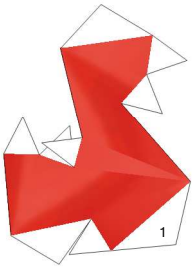


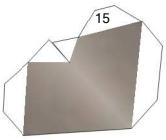
Reinforce the inside of piece 4 too.





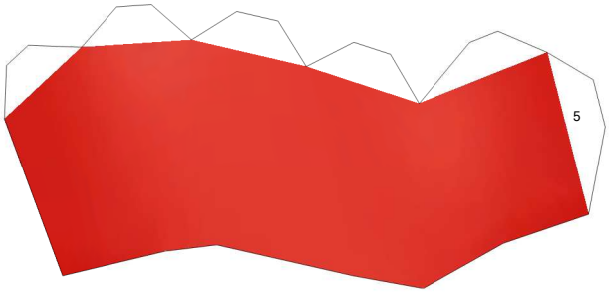


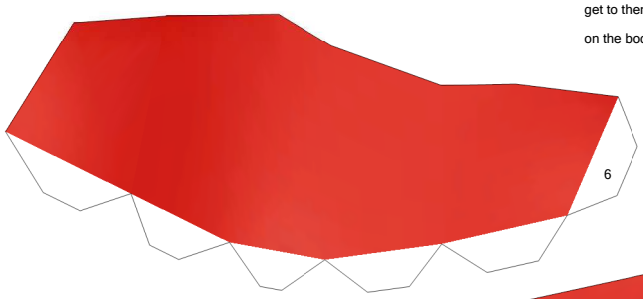


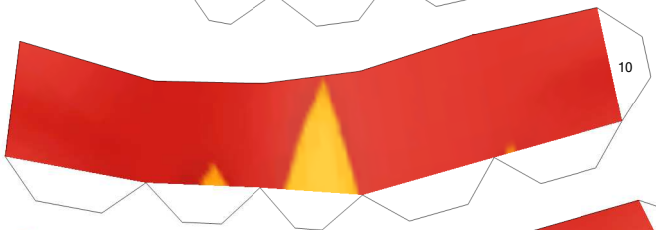


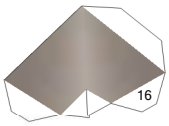
Start the model at the tail.

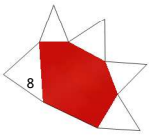
Glue the spikes when the numbers get to them. This goes for the ones on the body and on the legs.

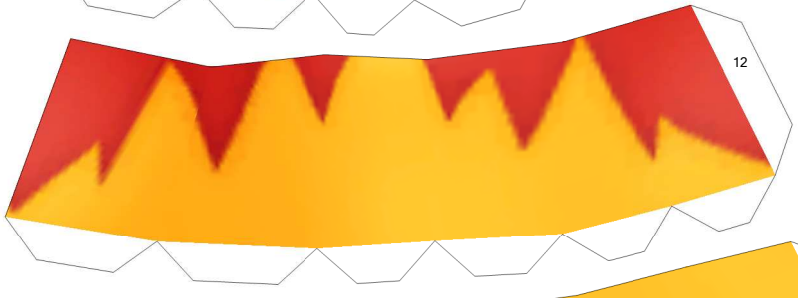




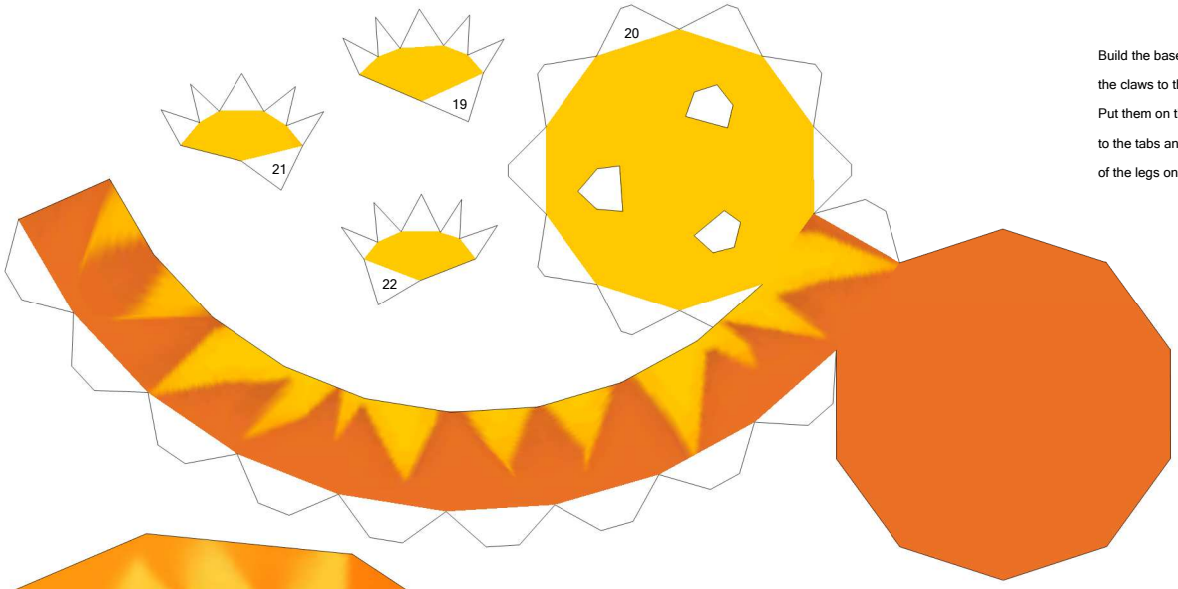








It's VERY IMPORTANT to reinforce the inside of the standing leg with scrap paper glued on the inside, otherwise it can colapse with time. Do it while building the legs.



Build the base before gluing
the claws to the standing leg.
Put them on the base, apply glue to the tabs and put the built part of the legs on the top.

After the ENTIRE model is built and glued together, put the model standing and put weight inside until it stands.
The weight will go inside the standing leg. After it stands, close the last leg and glue the claws to it.

Glue the inside of the leg fur,
than the outside and, only now,
cut the details. Only glue the claws
AFTER the details are cut.
