

About the Legions

The Czechoslovak Legions were Czech and Slovak volunteer armed forces fighting together with the Entente powers during World War I. Their goal was to win the Allies' support for the creation of an independent country of Czechoslovakia, which was part of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. The Legions originated with small armed units organized from 1914 onwards by volunteer Czechs and Slovaks. Later, many Czechs and Slovaks captured during the war joined these units; with help of émigré intellectuals and politicians (Tomáš Garrigue Masaryk, Milan Rastislav Štefánik and others) the Legions grew into a force of tens of thousands. The independence of Czechoslovakia was finally obtained in 1918.

Tips:

Recommended arrangement of the train:

2 x Chuchuz, locomotive, coal car, Zaamurec.

The locomotive with coal car must be in the middle of the train.

The „American” goods wagon can be placed on the forepart or on the tail, if you want.

Imitate smoke from stack with cotton wool.

Train can be used not only for a Czechoslovak legions - they only capture this train from Russian army.

Tipy:

Doporučená sestava vlaku

2 x Chuchuz, lokomotiva s tendrem, Zaamurec.
Lokomotiva se vždy nacházela uprostřed vlaku.

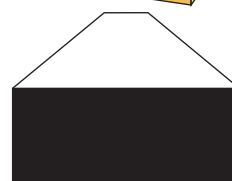

Nákladní vagon typu „Američan” můžeme připojit buď před vlak a nebo na jeho konec.

Kouř z komínu lokomotivy můžeme skvěle napodobit kouskem vaty.

Vlak nemusí nutně zobrazovat jen Československé legie. Čechoslováci ho pouze zabavili Ruské armádě.
