

Dodrio

By Brandon

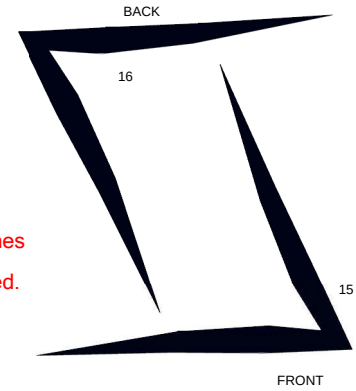

Build by LuIS

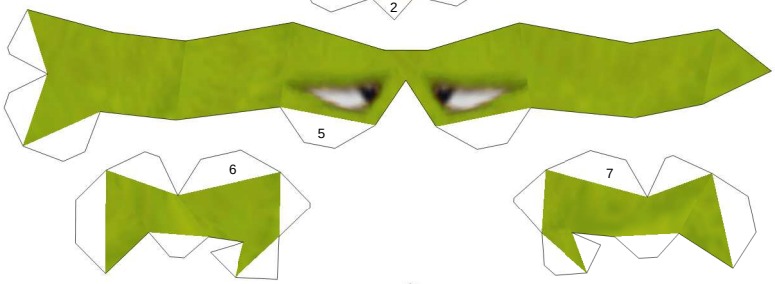

PaPerPokés

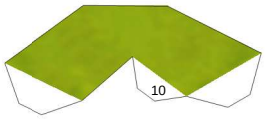

www.pokemonpapercraft.net

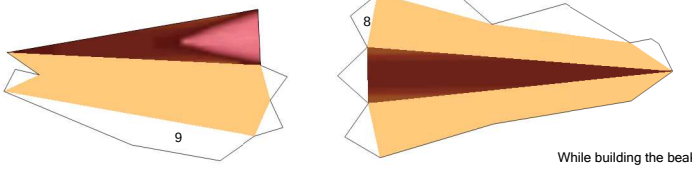

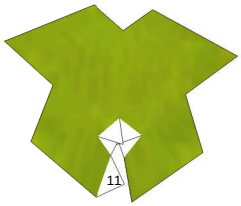

Suggested fold lines are indicated in red.

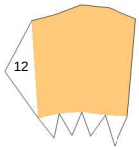

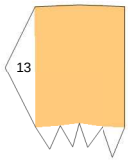

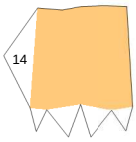

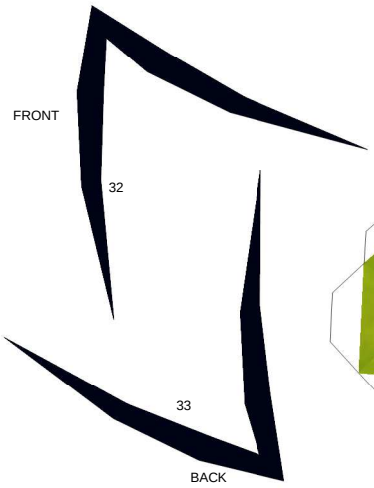

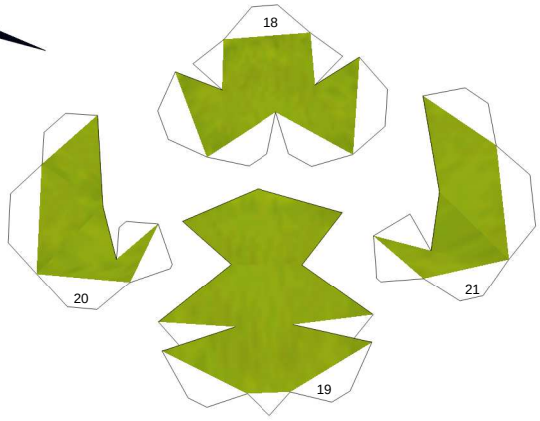

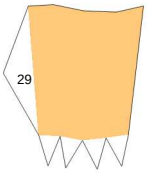

While building the beak, build the top part and the bottom separated and glue them together after both are built.

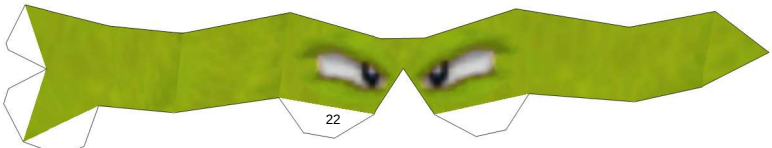

All of the heads follow the same build order. Make sure to fold the indicated lines. Start at the top and work down. Glue the beak as soon as the numbers get to it. Be carefull with the last piece of the head, it can give some trouble to place. Glue the neck to it as soon as it's done. You might also reinforce the neck, it might lose it's shape with the time. Connect it to piece 17 as soon as it's built. Glue the crest to the head after it's connected to the chest.

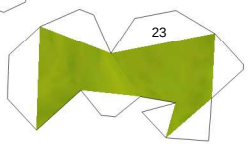

Note: the default texture for the neck colors is apricot (female). Textures are included for the darker neck (male) textures, but require Pepakura to use.

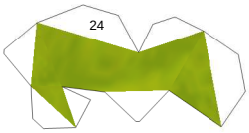

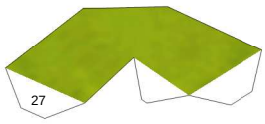

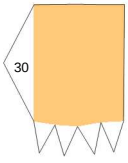

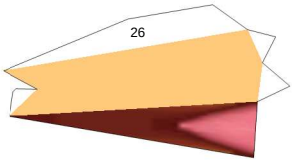

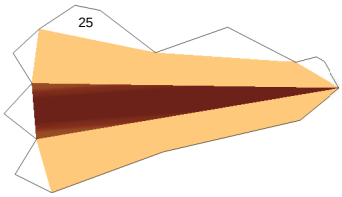

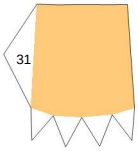

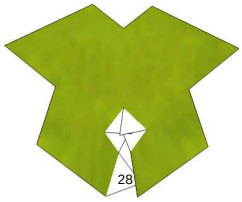

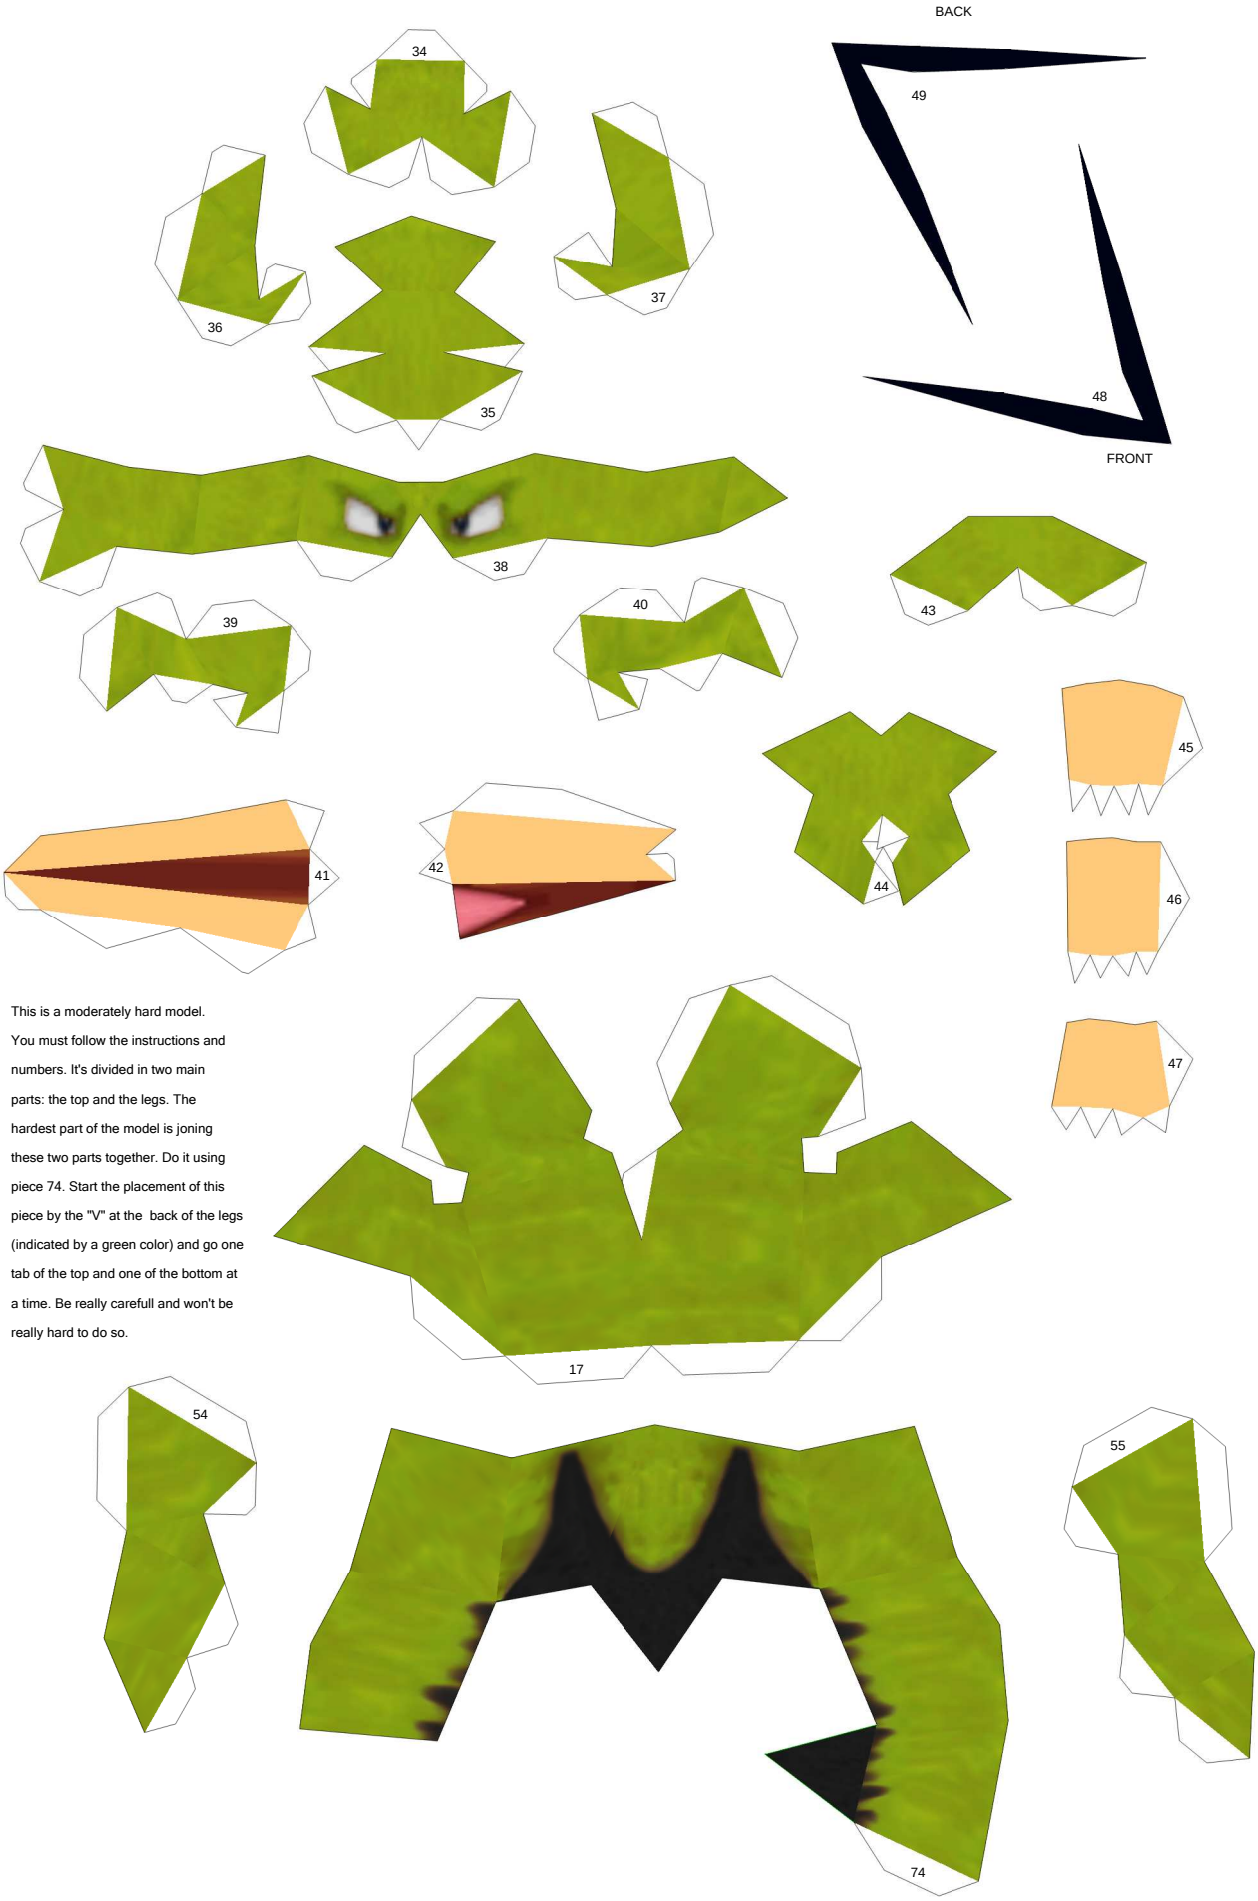

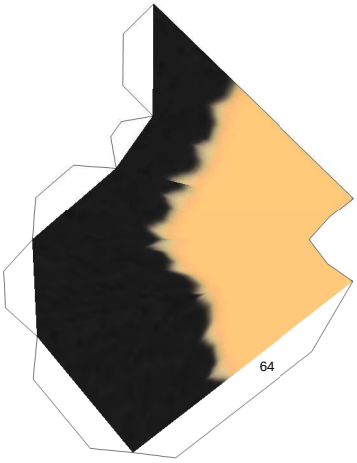

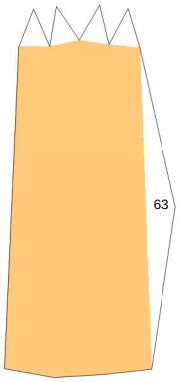

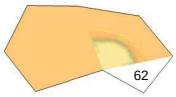

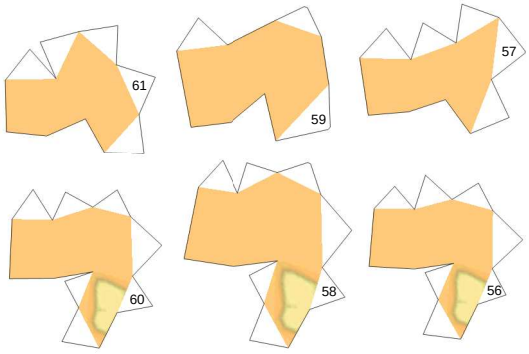

This is a moderately hard model. You must follow the instructions and numbers. It's divided in two main parts: the top and the legs. The hardest part of the model is joning these two parts together. Do it using piece 74. Start the placement of this piece by the "V" at the back of the legs (indicated by a green color) and go one tab of the top and one of the bottom at a time. Be really carefull and won't be really hard to do so.

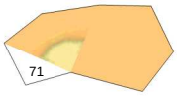

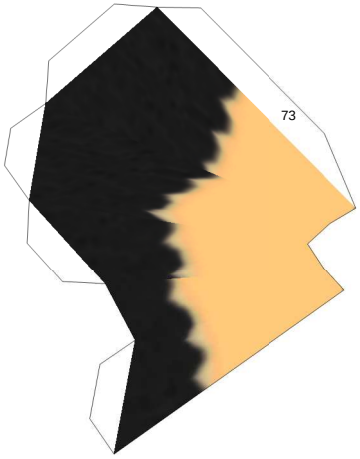

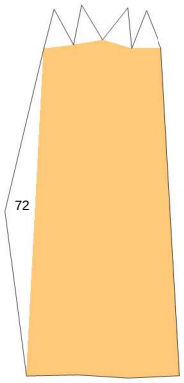

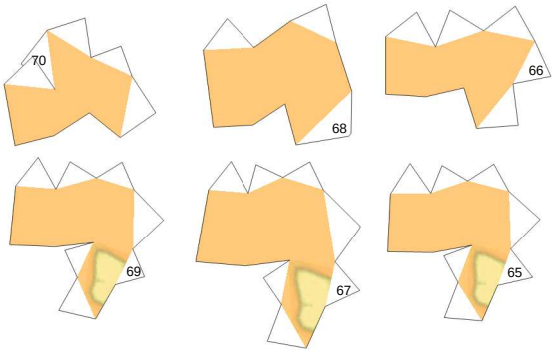

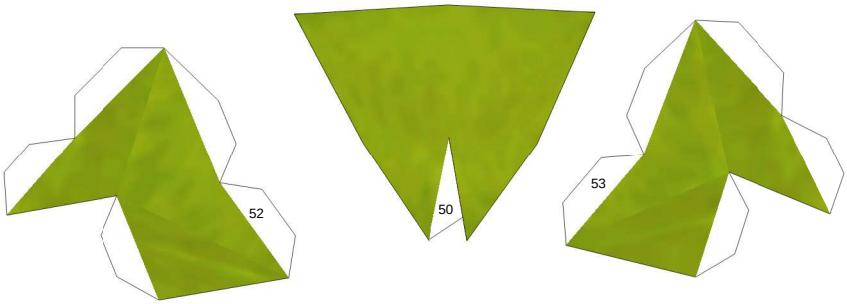

Start the legs by the claws. Be carefull with the joining of the claws to each other and the placement of the first leg piece.

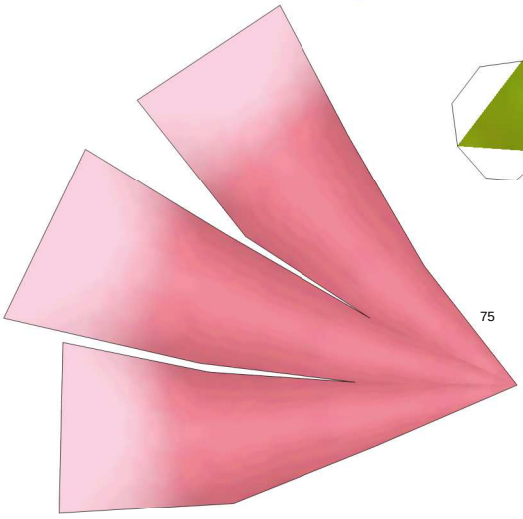

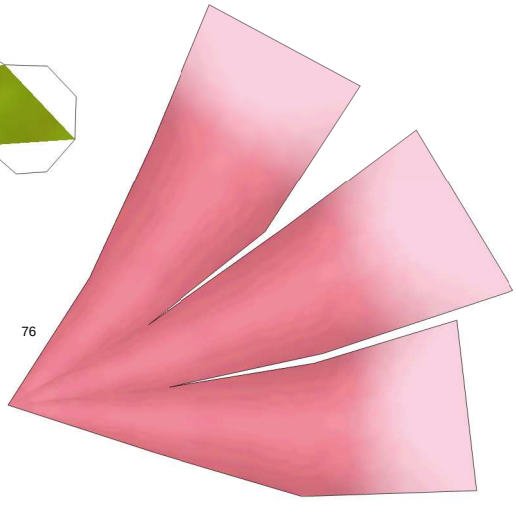

Cut the tail making a half circle at each feather.

FRONT

BACK